Dear Classmate,

After watching this video, I am curious to know who you are as a person. Have you ever had a significant change in your life, (good or bad) that has developed you into who you are today?

Since we are going to be working so closely together this year, I would like to get to know you on a more personal level.

To assist me in getting to know you better, write a personal narrative on the one major change that has had an impact on your life. To assist you in completing your narrative, create a visual representation of the multiple events that have made you who you are today. How did this event change you? What have you learned from this? What are you like as a person now?

I can't wait to see your narrative essay in presentation form during the gallery walk that we will do in a couple of weeks.

The more we get to know each other the better this year is going to be!

Sincerely,

Your fellow Innovation Academy Learner
